LAST SUGAR IS CLOSE TO MARKET

No sugar cargoes have reached market since November 8, when 8600 tons on the Arizona got in at a price of 5.20. The Nebraska and the Ishmanian are both on the way, and the former's cargo should be in by Saturday, as it left here on October 28. The 1911 crop is complete when three two shiploads have been reported on the Atlantic seaboard. Both will probably go in at a figure around five cents.

MARKET SHOWS MORE STRENGTH

In spite of the fact that there was not a sale this morning at the regular session of the stock exchange, investors and brokers alike are finding the market gradually growing firmer and expect that the next few days will see continued strengthening. Little real "action" is expected by the brokers before Congress opens, but it is confidently predicted that there will be a jump in every local security, for none of them expects that there will be any sugar tariff action during the coming session, and four of this action is all that is holding back investors now.

Oahu Sugar company, Wailuku and Ewa were the only stocks showing activity between boards. Wailuku has crept slowly up until now it is selling at $115, far below where it ought to be. Bonds were again in good demand, one transaction of $12,000 in Oahu sugar bonds being noted at $103.75. There was also some activity in Hilo railroad bonds at $100 for the 1901 sixes and in Oahu railroad bonds at $103.75.

COFFEE PRICE AGAIN STARTS TO CLIMB
Unfavorable Rains in Brazil One of the Factors.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The decline noted yesterday in the price of coffee was but temporary so far as features are concerned, for they advanced today from 20 to 43 points. The recovery was attributed to covering by recent speculative sellers and a renewal of support by bullish traders which was said to be encouraged by further rains in Brazil, unfavorable to the crops and estimates pointing to a big falling off in primary receipts during November. There was no important change in the prices for spot coffee, but the tone of the market was steadier in sympathy with the advance in the speculative market.

AMERICAN - HAWAII People and Industries

The EVENING BULLETIN'S 1911-1912 SPECIAL EDITION will be ready for distribution on Floral Parade Day, February 22

This edition will contain a complete review of the Hawaiian sugar industry. Much space will be devoted to minor industries, in addition to several new features.

An extremely interesting section of this coming edition will be

Practical People in Plantation Work

which will contain sketches and photographs of the executives on the plantations other than the managers. Sketches and photographs of the managers will appear in a separate section.

The People of Hawaii

is another new feature in this edition. This section will contain sketches and photographs of progressive people engaged in different pursuits and professions—merchants, ranchers, small planters, homesteaders, lawyers, physicians, chemists and civil engineers.

American Business Institutions in the Islands

another new section, will contain write-ups and pictures of many of the different mercantile and industrial institutions in the Hawaiian Islands.

Notes for copy and photographs for this coming edition should be sent in at once.
